The good reviews on here have GOT to be employees. For my birthday my husband spent $75 each to get us into the "Elegant Lexus Marquee Club" for dinner and drinks. I didn't have super high expectations but I was looking forward to it. So dressed in my heels we arrive at the theatre at 6:20 (doors open at 6:30) and proceeded to stand in the ONLY Marquee club line for 30 minutes just to enter. FYI there are 6 lines for general admission and the doors don't open for them yet. So now it is 7pm and the show starts in an hour. However I am very relived to be inside at this point because we are both very hungry. So looking around we find 3 different stations of food through the very thick crowd and realize we have to stand in line again. We stand in line at the first station to receive a party plate of meat, potato's and veggies so we can then go stand at a 2-top standing table. I don't eat much at all but this was not at all satisfying. I was still very hungry but had to go stand in line to get drinks. A white wine and jack & coke later we had just spent an additional $27 on top of the $150 for our 2 small plates of food. We have a short period of time left and at this point I am tired of standing in lines and having to separate from my husband to save time so we can make the show. We manage 1 more line for another very small plate of desserts and at this point need to head off for the show. We both arrived and left the theatre hungry! I would have much preferred a nice SIT DOWN dinner where I could actually order food and enjoy time with my husband. We could have eaten at a very nice restaurant for $180! And the food was nothing to write home about. This was a HORRIBLE experience.

I Visited the Fox theater on Saturday, October 12, 2019 for the comedy show. I Purchased a 7 PM ticket along with the marquee club pass. Upon purchasing the ticket for the marquee club it was stated that I would have an hour and a half before the show and one hour after the show to visit the marquee club. I arrived at the fox theater 30 minutes before the show there was barely any food left and the chicken and waffles and the bbq pork was dried out. I returned to the bar for a another very good Manhattan made by Matt an at that time I was told I would not be able to go to the rooftop after the show. I was shocked and disappointed as this was my plan since it would be dark then and perfect for roof top viewing. The reason was due to the fact that there was a second show and they needed to make room for those people but I spent nearly $70 for this extra special VIP service that only included 30m with some dried up food and two drinks that I paid an additional $16 each for. Ok so there's a second show how is that fair to me as a patron. It was definitely false advertising or flat out theft. I don't quite understand if they're going to stamp my hand when I first entered why couldn't I be allowed to come back after the show. As a business it would seem to them the more people there the more money they could make at the bar. This is a strange policy. I will make sure to tell people not to buy the marquee club ticket as it's a waste of money. Hopefully the kinks could be worked out as the club is classy and the staff is friendly and professional but for $100+ in total I should have went to a high end Resturant or one of the nice cigar bars in town.

Although the space itself is beautiful, and the idea of a pre-show experience a good one...stay away! We have purchased "VIP" experiences in the past, and this one missed the mark, by far!! A total of 6 of us went there last week. We were in line about 6:10, (doors opened at 6:30) and it was already long and winding. I kept asking, "Are you sure this is the line for the Marquee club?" There were easily 200 people in front of us and nearly that many behind us. I thought this was supposed to be an exclusive experience, how disappointing! Still, we were patient and thought that once we were inside, things would smooth out and improve. We proceeded to wait another 30 minutes before we even got through the door at 7pm. After we made it through the long line, security and the front door, yet more waiting and another check of our tickets. Once inside, we then tried to find a place to sit since we were standing (ladies in heels) outside in the cold for nearly an hour...HA! Nowhere to sit after searching all three levels and still, more long lines inside for the food and drinks. There were only two food stations on the first floor. One with servers "hot station" and the other self-serve, charcuterie and the like. You didn't have an option of possibly trying to find another food service line on a different floor. The food was very good, but we waited a long while and they had issues keeping the food stations stocked. We had to "divide and conquer" between food and drink lines and were rushing in the end to finish eating while standing at the bar since there were no seats or tables to accommodate us. At least we were able to take our drinks with us into the theater and didn't have to chug those. With all the additional wait times inside, I can't imagine what the poor people behind us had to endure. I thought we'd be able to spend some time with our friends, talking and relaxing before the show, not even close. My husband and many other patrons were expressing their dissatisfaction with the whole experience. The response was apologetic, and they indicated that they'd make a note of it and forward our comments and dissatisfaction to management. This show was for an "older crowd" and expectations were certainly not met. The Marquee Club was open post the show for an hour and no one in our group wanted to venture back in there. They oversold this perk and I don't recommend it. In the end, we made the best of it. I suggest you save your money and the aggravation, and just go to a nice dinner in town. I do not advise buying this pass until they work out the kinks, and it's truly a benefit.

My husband and I bought tickets to the Marquee club to start out his birthday evening prior to the Steve Martin/Martin Short show on 1/12/19. The show was amazing but the Marquee Club was a total rip off. Like some of the other reviews just posted about this same night. Greed was the name of the game. The MC way oversold tickets. The premium admission to the theatre was non-existent and some poor folks were pushed out into the rain because the line was interfering with the general admission lines. We too were in for over $200.00 between tickets and our bar bill. Had to stand on the corner of the third floor bar to put our plates down to eat. Got only one pass at just one buffet table and some of the stations had already run out of food! For that kind of money I am expecting so much more. I expected more of the Fox!!!! Do not waste your money. Good concept but they care more about profits than patrons. UPDATE: I just got a call from the management and they are refunding the full amount of the tickets for me and have assured me that management is taking the events of this last weekend very seriously and are making changes.
